

There are three ways to qualify.

First is a Long-Range Observation Appointment

This lets you demonstrate “known ability” and safety awareness as well as range etiquette. An RSO will take you up to the Long-Range and let you confirm zero on your scope and shoot silhouette size targets at 300,400,500,600, and 700 yards. You are allowed seven rounds to make the five impacts. This process should not take more than 30 minutes, and appointments can be made Wed. to Fri 9:30am-4:30pm. Cost is $50.00 (non-refundable) and is a pass/fail. Email rhett@fossilpointe.net

Second way is to take our Long-Range Training Clinic

The training clinic is designed to give participants the knowledge and fundamentals to precisely shoot targets at distance. This is a “ground-up” class where each shooter will thoroughly go through their gear to ensure proper setup and learn specifically with their equipment. The clinic runs 8am-6pm with a break for lunch. Cost is $399.00. Check calendar for class schedule.

Email david@fossilpointe.net for more information.

Here is a list of items needed to participate in the training clinic:

- ❖ 308, 6.5mm, 6mm or similar caliber precision rifle. Hunting rifles and / or magnum calibers are not recommended.
- ❖ Match ammunition (minimum 80 rounds)
- ❖ Quality scope with exposed/adjustable turrets with MIL or MOA reticle required with instructions. NO DUPLEX OR BDC RETICLES ALLOWED.
- ❖ Bipod with tilt feature required.
- ❖ Pen, pencil, and small notebook
- ❖ Rear tail bag (sandbag)
- ❖ Eye and Ear protection
- ❖ Comfortable durable clothing—rain/inclement weather gear
- ❖ Food/Lunch to snack on throughout the day
- ❖ Shooting mat
- ❖ Sunscreen/bug repellent (seasonal)

Third way is to take a Private Lesson

The first lesson is two hours. Cost is $150.00. Each additional hour is $75.00. This is a one on one session with the instructor. Need precision rifle, quality scope, and bipod.
